

WASHINGTON COUNTY
WATER CONSERVANCY DISTRICT

For Immediate Release
October 24, 2014

Contact: Karry Rathje
Public Information Manager
435.668.5622
krathje@wcwcd.utah.gov

FALL FESTIVAL SCHEUDLED FOR OCTOBER 27

Free, family-friendly event to feature dozens of activities for all ages

Washington County Water Conservancy District and City of St. George are hosting a free community event, Fall Festival, on Monday, October 27 from 4:00 – 7:00 p.m. at The Garden, 1851 S. Dixie Drive.

Planned activities include a spook alley, mad scientist experiments, children’s art projects, complimentary photos, educational booths and a photo display of the 2015 Virgin River Program calendar competition winning entries.

Many of these activities are new, according to Julie Gillins, conservation manager, Washington County Water Conservancy District. “Our festival grows in size and offerings every year,” she said. “This event is poised to be our biggest one yet. We hope many will come and enjoy this fun, outdoor seasonal celebration.”

Among the new activities planned for the festival is the unveiling of the winning entries featured in the 2015 Virgin River Program’s annual calendar. “More than 500 images were received this year making it one of the largest photo competitions in the county,” said Steve Meismer, program coordinator, Virgin River Program. “We’re grateful for all those who participated in the competition and are excited to announce this year’s winners at the Fall Festival.”

Other participants in this year’s festival include (JULIE?).

Visit www.wcwcd.org for more information.

About Washington County Water Conservancy District

Washington County Water Conservancy District, a not-for-profit public agency, was established in 1962 to manage Southern Utah’s regional water needs. The district oversees the development, stabilization, management, acquisition and conservation of water resources in Washington County in an ongoing effort to provide a safe, sustainable water supply for current and future generations. Visit www.wcwcd.org for more information.